Middle School Summer Reading List

Summer is here, and a Summer Reading List is a great way to stay on top of things. Below, you will find a suggested list of texts recommended by New York State, as well as a few from St John's.

When the students return in September, we will begin the year with a Socratic Seminar discussing the plot of their favorite summer read. Students should be prepared to recall the exposition (or the hook), the rising action, the climax, the falling action and the resolution. Students may write out the plot diagram if they choose, or store it mentally.

Enjoy the sunshine and happy reading!

Recommended Texts :

Crispin: The Cross of Lead by Avi

A young boy named Crispin, is declared a fugitive by the steward of his village. He runs away and is hunted by the steward and his men. He befriends a man named Bear and travels with him to the city, where he learns the truth about himself and manages to win his freedom.

Weeping Under This Same Moon by Jana Laiz

This story is set in Vietnam and NYC. It is based on Jana's experiences assisting refugees after the Vietnam War.

The Miraculous Journey of Edward Tulane by Kate DiCamillo

A china rabbit is gifted to a ten-year-old girl and he enjoys a pleasant but vain life. She treats him with the utmost love and respect, until an unfortunate incident finds him falling overboard while vacationing on the RMS Queen Mary.

The Mysterious Benedict Society by Trenton Lee Stewart

A group of children with extraordinary gifts and talents are recruited by a secret society whose sole purpose is to infiltrate an evil institute.

Breakout by Kate Messner

Inspired by the real-life breakout at the Clinton Correctional Facility in Dannemora, NY, this story follows three kids caught in the middle of a manhunt in a small upstate town. Uniquely told through letters, poems, text messages, news stories and comics.
